1. On 15 September 1951, drivers training was resumed by the air force unit quartered in the former officer candidate school in Dresden-Klotzsche. All of the driver trainees were air men and some wore driver's insignia on their epaulets. Driving individually and in convoys was practiced.

2. It was rumored that 200 Russian women had arrived who were to replace the German personnel. On 19 September, an enlisted woman was observed for the first time wearing a black skirt, brown gray jacket, black-bordered blue epaulets, and field cap.
3. The former Lufthansa building was occupied exclusively by air force personnel. Radio trucks were parked in the yard.
